

Module 1 | SESSION 5 The Leader Worth Following - Part 2

Don't ever let somebody tell you that you can't do something. ~ Will Smith

We're looking at the 3 essential attributes of The Leader Worth Following

- 1. Knowledge. Relevant competence.
- 2. Connection. WHO and WHAT matter most.
- 3. Awareness. What is it like to be on the other side of me?

٥.	, mareness, rinarie reine to be on the strict ends of me.
In this	s session we're focusing on matte	you live determines how much your life will matter. And if your life is going to r, you will need to be very intentional with how you develop and maintain Leade	ers worth following understand in their l	ife and work and for developing and maintaining those	relationships.
A SIM	IPLE will bring dramatic improvements to your ork, and leadership. It includes the top priorities in life – areas in which you want to ach	nieve maximum equity.
Each :	SIMPLE Personal Plan account has five simple sections:
1.	The clear and concise end result I desire in this account.
2.	I want my life to be built on transcendent values that have stood the test of time.
3.	This section details where I wanted to be 20 or 30 years from now in each account.
4.	Where am I in relation to my envisioned Future? How could I improve this area? How am I doing in this area?
5.	What specific disciplines will I develop to see immediate improvement in this account – daily, weekly, monthly?

Here's what is important and there's no universal list of pros and cons for your path in life. A personal life plan helps you do that by regularly bringing you back to those who are most important.
